The manuscript shows the good results of preharvest fruit covers and calcium fertilizations on flesh translucency of MD2 pineapples. The experiments were well designed. The results and discussion are obvious. However, the up-to-date references are required as articles involving pineapple translucency and calcium applications had been published after 2018.

For example:
- Muria et al. (2021) Pineapple crown and slip removal on fruit quality and translucency (Sci hort)
