Dear Nana Sutikna

We have reached a decision regarding your submission to Res Militaris Journal, " Luciano Floridi's Information Ethics "

Our decision is: Revisions Required

Best regards,
Editor in Chief

Reviewer A:

This research is less of explanation in the motivation (research gap), in some part of the phase of face detection, and in the discussion. The contribution is not clear. Author needs to explain some methods that used more detail.

- The title and method is not too suitable
- describe the gap of some related research as the motivation.
- result and discussion should be meaningful, it's not only about describing the result but also describing the meaning and its relation to other research.

Reviewer B

- >> The writing of the manuscript. There are a many incomplete sentences or sentences without subjects.
- >> Your abstract does not highlight the specifics of your research or findings. Rewrite the Abstract section to be more meaningful. I suggest to be Problem, Aim, Methods, Results, and Conclusion.
- >> Introduction section can be extended to add the issues in the context of the existing work and how proposed algorithms/approach can be used to overcome this.
- >> Add main contributions list as points in the Introduction section.
- >> Add the rest organization section at the end of the Introduction section.

- >> The authors should consider more recent research done in the field of their study
- >> If no one has proposed before a method like this claim should be highlighted much more. Else, it should be indicated who has done this, and it should be indicated what the innovations of the current paper are.
- >> Explain what kind of simulations will be provided in Section 4 at the beginning of the section;
- >> The authors also do not describe why the proposed outperformed other existing method.
- >> Results need more explanations. Additional analysis is required at each experiment to show the its main purpose.
- >> The results are not easy to follow. The proposed method and experiments are not clearly illustrated. Result and Discussion section is inadequate. Need more attention and better explanation.
- >> The authors should further detail the preparation of the dataset.
- >> A comparison with state of art in the form of table should be added
- >> The Limitations of the proposed study need to be discussed before conclusion.
- >> Please include the contribution of this paper, limitation of this study and future research in the Conclusion Section.
